

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air a one-sided and substantially refuted "Swift-boat" pseudo-documentary days before the election is an outrageous example of biased broadcasting.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. Sinclair demonstrates why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard.